

Celebration of National Education Day on Nov. 11, 2014, at Narula Institute of Technology

We feel extremely honored to celebrate The National Education Day commemorating the 126th Birth Anniversary of Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, the first Education Minister of Independent India. We owe a great deal of the progress achieved in education in Independent India to the direction & goals that Maulana had envisioned for us.

The event started with Mrs. Leena Sarkar Bhadhuri, Joint Co-ordinator of the event along with Dr. Subhashis Biswas, addressing the audience. Thereafter she invited the student speakers to discuss their views in front of the audience one by one.

The first speaker was Debolina Sarkar. In her speech she spoke about the implications of Azad's endeavors on today's education system.

The next speaker Junaid Uddin Daftari, spoke about Kailash Satyarthi, his dream of educating the impoverished youth & giving them a bright future. The true meaning of education as inspired by Maulana Abul Kalam Azad was education among the poor and unprivileged people of the society, and Junaid's discussion highlighted those points.

The following speech was by Debjyoti Pal, who shared Maulana Abul Kalam Azad's belief that education is the fundamental requirement of the society. He also shared the status of the present education system, the steps towards the changes within & concluded with significance of celebrating the National Education Day.

The next speaker Prithwis Halder , spoke about Maulana Abul Kalam Azad as an inspiration for the fight for India's freedom. He spread his message through his beautiful quotations from "Rig-Veda", connecting them with present –day scenario of Education in India.

Aritra Das, the next speaker, said Maulana believed education is a magic wand that can beat any challenge. It is magical as it helps us to rediscover ourselves.

The final speaker, Bhaswati Chatterjee, , focused on the importance of education on a global scale & the way it helps in fighting poverty & crime, promoting gender equality & environmental sustainability. Also she spoke about importance of educating the girl child.

All the faculty members present in the occasion appreciated the spontaneous approach and discussion by the students during the event, and the programme concluded with a stress upon building a future generation who can understand and inculcate the true meaning of the word “Education”.
